Ms. Karyn Twaronite is responsible for maximizing the diversity of Ernst & Young professionals across the globe by striving to continually enhance EY's inclusive culture. She is a member of EY's Global Practice Group and the Global Talent Executive.

Karyn frequently consults with clients on diversity and inclusiveness matters, serving as an EY thought leader in these areas. Her insights have been featured in The Financial Times, The Economist, Reuters, CNBC.com, The New York Times, Forbes, Fortune/CNN Money, Bloomberg Businessweek, Fox Business, Huffington Post, The Washington Post, USA Today and Diversity Inc.

Karyn also serves as EY's Americas Inclusiveness Officer, a position she has held since 2011. In addition to leading the Americas D&I team, she serves on the EY Americas Operating Sub-Committee and the EY Americas Talent Executive Committee, and co-chairs the EY Americas Inclusiveness Advisory Council.

Karyn joined EY over 20 years ago as a tax professional, serving clients for the first half of her career before moving into the Talent team. Prior to her current role, Karyn led human resources for the US and Canadian member firms. She has also served on advisory councils for numerous EY professional networks, including Unity (EY's lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and ally professionals network), the Professional Women's Network; the Black Professional Network; the Pan Asian Professional Network; and the Latino Professional Network.

Outside of EY, Karyn is a proud member of the Catalyst Board of Advisors, taking a prominent role in this leading non-profit organization with a mission to expand opportunities for women and business.
